

Message from the CEO

The Ferguson Library Board of Trustees has adopted a resolution in support of the Connecticut Library Association's Intellectual Freedom Statement Against Censorship published on February 10, 2022. One of the Ferguson's core values is intellectual freedom, which means facilitating the free exchange of information and ideas. The CLA's statement says, in part, "Recently, organized attacks have targeted library materials and programs by BIPOC, LBGQT+, and Jewish authors that address race, racism, enslavement, history, sexuality, gender identity and expression, bigotry, and antisemitism. This is a callous systemic erasure to undermine and eliminate the diversity of thought and experiences that reflect the BIPOC, LBGQT+, and Jewish communities. These assaults of intimidation threaten the livelihood and safety of authors, library workers, educators, and board members. CLA vehemently condemns these acts of censorship and intimidation . . . There is no good censorship." I couldn't have said it better myself. If you would like to read the full statement you can find it on the Connecticut Library Association's website.

—Alice Knapp, CEO

Find Book Suggestions

Looking for your next great read? You can find recommendations for children, teens and adults on our website. Lists include award winners and staff picks. For customized ideas, just fill out the form "What do I Read Next" and a librarian will make suggestions based on your reading preferences. You can also sign up for monthly updates of New and Notable titles.

You can find the Recommendations page under Borrowing/Find Books & More on our website.

Thank you for supporting the Library on Giving Day

Thank you to everyone who made a gift to the library on Fairfield County's Giving Day. The event is a 24-hour fundraiser for Fairfield County nonprofits, and with your help we raised $15,700 for the library, money that will help us buy books and offer programs for children and adults. Thank you for supporting your public library!

Supply Chain Issues Cause Book Delays

We're waiting for those bestsellers, too. Supply chain issues continue to delay delivery of many of the books we've ordered. We are trying to get them here as quickly as possible, but be sure to check our catalog for other formats. The book you are looking for might also be available as an e-book or audiobook.

DIGITAL LIBRARY: UDEMY

Professionals looking to acquire new skills to remain competitive in the workplace can turn to Udemy for more than 130,000 online video courses focused on professional development. Popular subject areas include business and finance; technology; office productivity; design; marketing and communications; and more. Content is structured using a learner-first approach, allowing users to select a course that best addresses learning needs and filter search results based on course features, level, duration, topic or ratings. For access to this service, a Google or Microsoft account is needed and users must be connected to a WiFi or wired network in Connecticut. You can find this resource under Research & Learn/A to Z Resources on our website.
